Obituary.

Mrs. Almira Hill, widow of the late Charles Theodore Hill, passed away on September 12th at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. J. Hardy, Edmonton, after an illness lasting for nearly three years.

The late Mrs. Hill, who had passed her 78th birthday at the time of her death, was one of the pioneer women of the district, coming here with her family to join her husband in the early summer of 1907 from Natick, Mass.

She was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William McEthan of Eastville, Colchester Co. N.S., but made her home in Irma, for a number of years before coming west.

Since Mr. and Mrs. Hill located on their homestead here their home has always been a landmark of friendship and hospitality where everyone was welcome. Residents of the district deeply regret the passing of a real friend and neighbor. She was an active worker in the local church organizations, being a pioneer member of the Irma Ladies Aid and the Irma branch of the Women's Missionary Society.

The deceased leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Mrs. P. J. Hardy of Edmonton, one son, Fred M. Hill and eight grandchildren of Irma; also one sister, Mrs. James Curran and two brothers, Ross and Fred McEthan of Mass., U.S. Her husband predeceased her six and a half years ago.

The remains were brought to Irma and the funeral service was held from the United Church where a large number of friends and acquaintances gathered to pay their last respects. The service was conducted by Rev. E. Longmire, pastor of the church, ably assisted by the adult choir. Mrs. E. L. Simmerman and Mrs. O. P. Larson contributed to the service by singing a duet entitled "In the Garden."

The floral tributes were many and beautiful and were contributed by the following:

The Family: Harry and Ada Stewart and Grace; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hardy and family; Eugene, May and boys; P. Manning Lumber Co.; Friends of Credit Foncier including Mr. Chas. King, Miss Clara King, Mrs. W. H. King, Mr. and Mrs. A. Slater, Mrs. W. A. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. J. White, Mr. and Mrs. R. Jones, Miss Mary Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Dunham; The Kasten Family; Bob and Lily and family; Ralph and his children; Irma Ladies Aid; Mr. and Mrs. Penfield; Mr. and Miss Donaghu; Claude and Allie; Mr. and Mrs. Foxwell; Jack and Alice Fletcher; Mr. and Mrs. R. McFarland; Mrs. Flewelling, Alice and Mrs. Tate; Mr. and Mrs. E. Tomlinson; Mr. and Mrs. F. Wieser; Mrs. O. Chase; Mr. and Mrs. A. Long; Mr. and Mrs. A. Blakley; Mr. A. Turnbull; Mr. J. A. Hedley, I. Knudson, Althea and Arthur; Mr. and Mrs. James Fenton, Stuart and Rena; Mrs. F. W. Watkinson; Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Simons, Ernie and Doris; Eldon, Isabelle and girls; Walter and Mabel Erickson; Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Jones; Mr. and Mrs. Smallwood and Alex; Mrs. McKay and family; Mrs. M. Tripp; Mr. and Mrs. J. Burrell; Mr. and Mrs. R. Dempsey; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bacon.

Interment was made in the family plot of the Irma Cemetery. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Ross McFarland, E. P. Tomlinson, A. E. Blakley, R. L. Simmerman, Chas. Wilbraham, and A. Turnbull.

IRMA LADIES' AID

The September meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Arnold with a good number of members and friends present.

Mrs. Carter conducted the meeting. Mrs. Simmerman sang a lovely solo entitled "God Will Take Care of You" and Mrs. Fletcher gave a very splendid paper on the origin of radium.

Plans were made for a real Thanksgiving supper to be held in the church the evening of Monday, October 9th to be followed by a short program and social evening. The admission was set at 25c and 15c. The idea is to make this a real community gathering and we hope there will be a good representation from all corners of our church field.

In their lesson at the last meeting the L.T.L. were shown photos that pictured the gradual decrease of food value as barley is made into beer. Step by step its nourishing power becomes less until almost nil; while in its place a poison is developed.

Under the caption "Mid rot of barley rot of corn, that's where alcohol is born," the members were taught the fact that apples, grapes, wheat, and other grains when made into alcoholic beverages, go through a chemical change equivalent to roasting.

The next meeting will hold an observance of three September birthdays. It will be the last Friday of this month.

Albert District News

The September meeting of the Albert W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Ellwood. In spite of the rather small attendance it was a pleasant and profitable afternoon. Mrs. Ellwood gave a splendid paper on the sugar beet industry in Alberta. During the business session it was decided to send Mrs. C. V. Larson to Edmonton as a delegate to the convention to be held next month. Miss Edith Ellwood conducted several lively contests. At the close of the afternoon lunch was served by Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. W. E. Ramsey.

Miss Edith Jones left last week for Edmonton where she will attend the Normal School. Miss Wilma Currie spent the weekend in Edmonton.

A War Problem

Whatever part Canada may be destined to play in the war now raging between Germany on the one hand and Great Britain, Canada, France and Poland, on the other, the fact that Western Canadian agriculture will be charged with the highly important duty of assisting in the task of supplying food commodities to the allied belligerent nations and their armies is quite clear.

What is not clear, however, is the extent to which and for how long Western Canada will be called upon or will be able to render this duty as part of its contribution towards the winning of the war. That is dependent upon many factors, such as the length of the war, the bountifulness, or otherwise, of the crop yields while the war is in progress, the extent to which the sea lanes can be kept open for the conveyance of foodstuffs and the arrangements which the allies can make, or may be forced to make by the exigencies of warfare, to ensure an uninterrupted flow of food supplies to their nationals and their fighting forces.

It would be a bold prophet who would venture to predict specific answers to some of the questions involved in these at present unknown factors. The war, for instance, may be a lengthy conflict, as protracted or more so than the "unpleasantness" of 1914-18. On the other hand it may be of very short duration. There are those who are making predictions of the length of the war, ranging all the way from twenty weeks to twenty years. The most that can be said for them is that they are only guesses, and one man's guess is as good as another's.

The Immediate Requirement

This being the case, it is impossible for the individual farmer, or even for those in charge of the nation's affairs, to devise a long range program of production and distribution of agricultural products for the entire duration of the war. All that can be done at the present time, is to order the distribution of the crop just harvested in such manner as to ensure its delivery at such times and such places as to furnish maximum assistance in the prosecution of the war and to lay plans for production next year on an adequate scale with a similar objective in view. The former is now the problem of the government, and the Canada Wheat Board with the assistance and co-operation of the wheat pools and others marketing agencies.

The latter, the question of preparation for, and production of next year's crop, is one which will involve the co-operation of the individual farmer with the government of the country and the various distributing and marketing agencies. To what extent the quantity and type of production will be left to the discretion of the individual farmer and to what extent, if any, the exigencies of the national warfare, will warrant or necessitate directional measures over production effort on the part of the government has not, at the moment, been announced.

Whether or not any measure of government control over production is assumed, it can be taken for granted that, as long as a supreme effort may be required in the prosecution of the war, with the utmost vigor, the farmers of the west will give loyal and effective support and a full quota of co-operation, even though it entail some sacrifice and the abandonment of much cherished plans for the time being.

Mistakes To Avoid

Whether, however, the farmer retains full measure of liberty in ordering his production program for the next and subsequent years, or not, it is to be hoped that plans laid down will take some cognizance of mistakes unwittingly made during the last war and efforts be made to avoid them or, if that is impossible, to ameliorate their after effects.

During the last war, it will be remembered, a great deal of sub-marginal and marginal land was brought under the plow and seeded to wheat in a strenuous effort to meet the requirements of the allied nations for more and more food. As a result of this fine effort food that was urgently required was forthcoming as and when needed, and unquestionably the manner in which farmers responded to the call for an adequate supply of foodstuffs played an important part in the ultimate victory.

Unfortunately, however, after the war, when prices of foodstuffs dropped to peace time level, and below, farmers found they had on their hands broken land which was no longer profitable to till and seed and, as a result, much of this land became harborage for noxious weeds and breeding grounds for insect pests which infested good lands and polluted good crops, and eventually became a problem of serious magnitude.

If it is again found necessary, in order to ensure the prosecution of the war with maximum efficiency, to again use some of these ordinarily unprofitable areas to raise bread foods, this subsequent problem should not be overlooked when plans are being made.

Consideration might well be given to the alternative possibility of increasing yields on the more profitable land by more widespread use of pure, vigorous and healthy seed and the adoption of more scientific methods of cultivation, wherever this may be practicable.

And if that is not deemed sufficient and some marginal and sub-marginal lands must be used in order that war requirements may be fully met, then some consideration should be given as to the use to which they may be put subsequently and immediate plans for their use so modified and ordered that this later contingency may be met without undue loss.

In the meantime, however, the prosecution of the war with the utmost vigor is the first claim on all citizens of Western Canada and this must be the prime and immediate objective, regardless of the sacrifices entailed.

Seeds For Export

Canada Has Entered Into Both Production And Export Of Many Grass And Clover Seeds

Canada has come quite definitely into both production and export of many grass and clover seeds and a recent issue of statistics from the plants products division makes interesting reading, as a number of varieties, formerly on the import list, are now transferred to the export side. Even a number of varieties, which are still imported, the amounts are greatly lessened. Alsike clover, for example, the production for 1938 was 7,003,000 pounds, no imports for the spring of 1939, but an export of 4,323,780 pounds from June 1st, 1938, to June 30th, 1939. In 1938 Canada produced 4,052,000 pounds of alfalfa seed and exported 3,267,000 pounds, and imported 400 pounds.

Swedish clover seed production in 1938 was 11,820,000 pounds. Had no importation and exported 10,528,000 pounds. Timothy made a rather poor showing as, while production ran to 4,316,000, imports ran to 4,098,044. Crested wheat grass, however, makes an excellent showing, production running to 1,685,000 pounds with an import of only 2,505 pounds, but an export of 610,579. Of awnless home, production and export nearly balanced. Production was 2,350,500 pounds and exports 2,274,504 pounds.

Unfortunately, this report does not give any idea of the price at which these seeds sold. It is known, however, that the price of alfalfa seed for 1938 was around 16¢ per pound and sweet clover from 3¢ to 4¢; and, while this price for sweet clover is too low for much profit, 16¢ for alfalfa certainly pays.

Have Sense Of Direction

Common Toads Return Year After Year To Same Pond

According to the London Listener E. G. Boulenger, Curator of Reptiles at the London Zoo, had some queer facts to tell about the common toad. "While the common frog," he said, "lays its egg masses in the first water that is available sometimes it even changes the water the tadpoles inhabit, the methodical toad exhibits a quite amazing conservatism. It returns year after year to the same pond in order to undertake its domestic duties even if there are apparently equally desirable ponds between its winter quarters and the rendezvous which might be over half-a-mile apart.

These annual cavalcades are usually made in the dark and the toads show a truly amazing sense of direction. I have shown that by experiment. Some years ago I filled a large bag with toads from a particular pond and I turned them loose half-a-mile away. Without exception one and all of them (after a few tentative hops) sallied forth towards the pond they had been taken from. I may say that for the purpose of the test I saw to it that there were other ponds near the place where I had turned them loose.

Colony's Famous Rule About Motor Traffic Is Rescinded

Two of Bermuda's most widely known prohibitions—one on motor cars, the other on woman suffrage—went toppling in the wake of the war.

The assembly passed a bill breaking the colony's famous rule against motor traffic because of war conditions. The governor may now operate motor vehicles, of all sorts on Bermuda roads for the duration of the war.

It was disclosed also that under the Emergency Powers Act recently passed, the governor, now Major General Denis Kirwan Bernard, has the power to grant woman suffrage, for which the women of Bermuda have fought fruitlessly but steadily for many years.

Sorcerers Appear To Be Still A Real Power In The Land

Sir Hubert Murray, governor of Papua, believes that despite 50 years of government and missionary work among the natives of New Guinea, "bumbugging sorcerers still are the real power in the land."

In his annual report the governor said "officers complain that the fear of sorcery prevents natives from assisting them in the arrest of murderers." The report also said "devil trees" hindered a survey of a proposed airfield because the natives refused to work until they were convinced by a spectacular fireworks display that the devils had been driven away.

Perry said the parrot was at least 108 years old and was brought to America in 1830 after being found aboard a pirate craft in the China Sea.

THE RIVER OF SKULLS

CHAPTER V

Sick at heart with Berthe's coldness, Alan sought his old friend Pierre to learn what had been the comment at the Revillon Freres on his sudden departure for the north coast.

"You mak' queek start, eh, dat night you leave for de north?" laughed the big Frenchman when he and Julie had welcomed the wanderer. "Dose poolece, dey were ver' cross, w'en you beat dem to Whale River."

"What did they say when they got back?"

"Wal, I hear dem talk wid de boss. Dey say you race dem to Whale so you can tell Neil Campbell about de money."

"What did Gabriel say?"

"He say, see, you went for de good old Gabriel, thought Alan, he's still my friend. Then he asked: 'What has Rivard been saying? I know that he's done all he could to turn the Madame and Berthe against me. Berthe wouldn't talk to me to-night.'"

Pierre scowled and shook his head. "Ah, dat es bad—ver' bad. Madame Dessane she lak' Arsene, yes, she lak' dat young fellow. But Ma'n'selle Berthe she feel be all right. Eet es dat woman, Hanbury, dat mak' all de trouf. She turn Fort George on hees head, so w'en Arsene tell Berthe you talk to her to-night."

"I got the pups in the Nastapokas, from a Husky."

"Ah-hah! And she make trouf' der quick wid Madame Martin. De woman are all cross wid her. She would not tell dem w'y she come to Fort George."

The moon was up when Alan took the river trail to the Hudson's Bay settlement. His thoughts brooded over the mood in which he had found Berthe. There remained but a short space, now, before he would have to start for the headwaters—probably with the police; only too brief an interval to win back Berthe. And then there would be months of absence, possibly a year or more in the interior with John McCord, while Rivard and Madame Dessane poisoned her mind. But McCord had promised him money and money he needed.

The following morning when Alan and Noel returned from their fish traps and were playing with the huge puppies inside the dog stockade, they had a caller.

"G'morning, Cameron!" Alan looked up to recognize the thick-set figure of Sergeant McQueen behind the slabs of the gate. "You got your dogs, I see. Beauties, too! Nothing like them at Whale River."

"I got the pups in the Nastapokas, from a Husky," he answered, as the state-gray dog, pursued by Shot and the brown-patched Rogue circled him in a mad race, while Rough lay near at hand, watching their childish antics through condescending, oblique eyes.

"I want to talk with you, Cameron."

"All right."

Leaving Noel with the dogs, Alan joined McQueen and entered his house. The policeman took the chair Alan offered and leisurely filled and lit his pipe, then asked abruptly, "When do we start up river?"

It was evident that McQueen intended to ignore the matter of the race to Whale River, was satisfied, as was most of Fort George, that Alan had met McCord. For a space the eyes of the youth met the other's in a fixed stare.

"I'm starting in about a week," said Alan. "Are you men strong-water men?"

"Yes, they're good river men. Slade and I were brought up in a canoe."

"Good thing for you. There's some had poing water on this river."

"Well, when you're ready to start, let me know," said McQueen.

"You'll be a month reaching the three forks and you'll need three months' grub, for you might miss the caribou," said Alan, hoping to learn whether the police intended to winter in the interior or to return before the ice.

"Three months?" laughed the other, rising. "We're travelling in two canoes with flour for six months."

As Alan watched McQueen walk toward the Hudson's Bay store he said aloud: "No, you won't get John McCord. What a mess he'd make of you and Slade if you ever met him!"

Torn between pride and the desire to see Berthe, Alan sat in his cabin that evening when the afterglow had faded from the sky and the rose flush of the river surface had retreated before the purple dusk. But a few days remained now before his start to meet John McCord and Heather. When would he again see Fort George and the girl who doubted him?

Noel was visiting at a Montagnais tipi and Alan smoked, alone with his plans. There had been a list of things to be bought for Heather through one of the Montagnais girls, a friend of Noel, to avoid suspicion. And there was extra flour and sugar, beans and tea, that McCord wanted to cache somewhere before they lunged into the unknown tundra—a relief cache to which they could retreat if the caribou failed. Alan sat deep in thought when the yelping puppies in the stockade aroused Rough from his sleep. He went to the door, listened, sniffed, then snarled.

"Hello, there! Alan Cameron! Please take care of your dog! I want to see you!"

It was the rich, throaty voice that had argued with Alan the night before at the French Company's trade-house. Alan's dark brows met, and he opened the door.

"Good evening! Will you come in?" he said, wondering how soon Rivard would reach Berthe with the news that Mrs. Hanbury had been at his house, and yet hoping, as this woman was a government agent, to learn more of John and Heather McCord.

Alan lit another candle and placed a chair for his caller. She smiled easily up at him while he leaned against the door.

"You're a foolish young man, Mr. Alan Cameron. Do you realize that you've ruined your reputation at Fort George?" Mrs. Hanbury leaned forward, elbows on knees, chin cupped in her graceful, well-carved hands, as she watched Alan through her half-shut, hazel eyes. "Not only that, but you're in serious trouble with the government."

"Just what did you come to Fort George for?" he countered. "Are you here with McQueen on this man hunt, or is there something else?"

She laughed boisterously at his question, and totally unfamiliar though he was with women of the world, he caught a ring of hardness, of callousness, in her voice. "I'm a special agent of the government at Ottawa," she went on and her voice suddenly softened with suggestion, "but I'd swap secrets with a man as—as handsome as Alan Cameron."

She rose from her chair and stood in front of him, her knee touching his, as she looked down at him possessively. "Now if you'll tell me where you left McCord, I'll tell you just why I happen to be here."

As he watched her, hoping that, in her brazen self-confidence, she would carelessly say too much, she suddenly placed both hands on his shoulders, and gazed triumphantly down at him as if already she had won. But he smiled inwardly at her easy assumption of victory. So the rude hunter of fur was now supposed to tell all he knew of the brave, perfumed lady from Ottawa flashed her teeth, threw back her head and looked at him through her long lashes? Well, he also had some teeth to show. Calmly brushing aside her detaining hands, he rose from his chair and, while her brain fought with her offending pride as wave after wave of blood stained her face, he calmly lit his pipe.

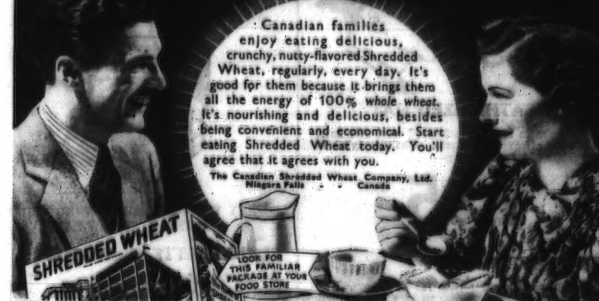

"You—you," she choked.

"You—what, Mrs. Special Agent?"

He asked, coolly.

Suddenly recovering her poise she stood staring at him in amazement.

"You blockhead!" she finally managed to say.

She turned to find Rough standing at her elbow, hair erect, his throat swelling in a muffled growl.

"That beast! Take that beast away from me!" she cried.

"Here, Rough!" commanded Alan. "You're scaring the lady. Did you think she was going to bite me? I did. Good-night, Mrs. Hanbury!" he opened the door. "So that's the way a special agent from Ottawa handles the men!"

Standing in the doorway he laughed bitterly into the night. He knew, now, that he could not make his peace with Berthe Dessane before he left Fort George.

Problem Child

Vision Of Nine-Year-Old Boy Made Him See Objects Upside Down

Richard Kenealy's optical nightmare is over.

The nine-year-old's world of upside-down moving objects is now right side up. No longer does he complain that he sees locomotives, automobiles, running playmates and other moving things wrong side up.

Training him to use only one eye at a time by switching opaque lens from one side to the other was credited by Dr. Edmund Krump with putting Richard's world in order. He uses both eyes now, apparently with normal results.

Panama Canal Defence

U.S. Government Has Plans To Make It War Proof

After 25 years of operation the Panama Canal now looms more than ever as the keystone in the defence of the Western Hemisphere and the United States Government has plans under way to make it "war proof."

The United States needs the canal not only as a vital link in the national defence plan, enabling speedy transfer of the navy from one ocean to the other, but also for its great commercial value. Since the canal opened in August, 1914, more than 100,000 commercial vessels have passed through it.

Congress this year appropriated $27,000,000 to increase the military garrison and defence equipment. To meet the needs for sea-coast defence in the Canal Zone, the War Department has recommended installation of a "great number of seacoast gun batteries, submarine mine projects, anti-aircraft batteries and searchlights and an increase of the garrison by 180 officers and 6,400 men. The present force guarding the canal comprises only 70 officers and 3,516 men.

In studying the War Department is studying plans for construction of a third set of locks in the canal. The purpose of the new locks is two-fold: they are needed to take care of the increasing traffic in the canal, and, as a defence measure, would permit swifter passage of the navy through the canal. The estimated cost of this plan is $27,000,000.

General Malin Craig, recently retired as chief of staff, stated the Panama Canal was the "keystone in the defence of the Western Hemisphere," and that it must be made impregnable.

Spiritual Ruler Of Mohammedans Enjoins His Subjects To Support Cause

The Information Ministry in London announced that the Aga Khan, spiritual ruler of 10,000,000 Mohammedans in India, Africa and Central Asia, had called upon his subjects to give "unlimited service" to the cause for which Great Britain is fighting.

It was announced that the Aga Khan had sent the following message to the president of the Ismailia executive council in Zanzibar:

"It is the first religious and secular duty of all my spiritual children in Africa to co-operate loyalty and do all in their power, heart, soul, loyal, unstinted service must now be given to the cause of the Empire which is the protector of our faith and liberty. This should be read after prayers daily and published."

The Empire affairs section of the Information Ministry's communique detailed pledges of assistance from British Guiana and Mauritius an island of 400,000 people in the Indian Ocean.

It said the Governor of Southern Rhodesia had mobilized all units in the territorial active force and their regimental reserves in Salisbury, Bulawayo, Umtali and Quele for active service "within or beyond the borders of the colony."

Turkish Leader Fearless

Pressure From Germany Did Not Break Pact With Allies

Slight, grey-haired, sick-chinned General Ismet Inonu, right hand man and successor to the late, great Mustafa Kemal Ataturk, is peculiar among statesmen in that he is quite deaf, says Time. President Ismet Inonu, who in his soldiering days wanted to go on fighting the Greeks long after the Ataturk knew he had been whipped, is also quite fearless.

Into the deaf ears of his master of the Dardanelles poured blarney, threats, as Ambassador Franz von Papen sought to detach Turkey from its French-British guarantees, hook it to the Swastika.

To Turkey, old-time friend of the Soviet Union with which it shares the Black Sea, news of the German-Russian Pact was almost as serious a shock as it was to Germany's friend Japan. It came just as the ink was drying on a French-Turkish trade pact. It also brought on what was later described as "extraordinary pressure" from Germany. Von Papen was given an hour in which to perform his suicide, really such, then President Inonu made clear to France and Britain that he stood with them in the great line-up. Turkey, said her No. 1 editor, would stand with the Allies "even if the Reich were 10 times stronger."

The World of Wheat

H. G. L. Strange
Director "Crop Testing Plan"

The Crop Testing Plan has just concluded the analysis of 24,000 wheat samples, each one of which represents a farmer's field of wheat. While a large number of excellent true-to-variety fields were found, yet on the other hand the tests revealed that thousands of farmers are losing money by producing crops which are made up of mixtures of unsuitable varieties. These poor varieties and mixtures not only lower the farmer's yields and grades, hence lose him money, but as well tend to lower the general quality of Canadian wheat.

Farmers, therefore, who had C's and "Mixtures" in the Crop Testing Plan tests, or other farmers who may be in doubt about the quality of their crops, should certainly not continue to sow poor money-losing seed, but should now lay their plans to secure more suitable stock for next spring's sowing.

In almost every district there are professional seed growers with moderately priced Registered and Certified seed to sell. There are also in each district farmers who have in their bins true-to-variety Crop Testing Plan "A" stocks which can usually be purchased by neighboring farmers at a modest premium.

High quality wheat is a vital necessity for Canada, Great Britain and their allies.

Canada to Send Troops Over There

OTTAWA, Sept. 20.—Canada's immediate program of co-operation with the British government in the war against Germany involves organization of two divisions, for overseas service if needed, doubling the naval personnel, an intensified air force training, and construction of a large number of anti-submarine craft, it was announced Tuesday night.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, defence minister, issued a statement of government policy and co-operation, adopted after consultations with the British government.

What Air Waves Are Saying Over C J C A

This Monday night at ten saw the return of one of last year's most popular quarter-hour features, "The Musical Workshop," starring such favorites as the lovely singing lady Hillegard; Ted Steele's popular Novatones; Bill Winger and his versatile orchestra; and the singing male octet The Buccaneers.

Another feature to re-greet C J C A listeners this Monday night will be the Lux Radio Theatre. Directed and produced by Cecil B. DeMille, this outstanding one-hour presentation brings Hollywood right into your loudspeakers. A little note about the Lux Radio Theatre is this little story about the chief sound-effects director, Chas. Forsythe. In looking for something to sound like a stealthy tread on a gravel walk the resourceful Mr. Forsythe found that his own chubby fist patting the stones gently, produced the exact sound. Too many gravel scenes, however, have caused Charlie to have a replica of his hand on hand at all times. Saves on the epidemics and prevents dish-pans.

With all of the old favorites coming back, and new ones on the way, the schedule looks mighty entertaining for the fall and winter season.

Boxing Program For October 11th

BOXING PROGRAM FOR WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 11th

(From The Viking News)

Boxing enthusiasts along this line will have a chance to exercise their lungs at a boxing show to be staged in the Elks hall on Wednesday evening, October 11th. For the main event Lindsay Guild of Strome has been matched with Ab Quinn of Lac La Biche. These merit artists tip the scales at 170 lbs. and have a good reputation as exponents of the manly art. Guild appeared in the semi-final of the Wembley-Warrington bout at Edmonton June 1st and is an up and coming leather pusher. Since then he has had several bouts at Calgary and other Southern Alberta points. He is in heavy training for this match. We don't know much about this man Quinn, but he is a likely looking fellow and has a good record in the squared circle. From all accounts it should be a good match. It's billed for ten rounds.

For the semi-final E.O. Clark of Strome meets Kid Cardinal of St. Paul at 135 pounds in a six-rounder. They are both promising action when they meet to see who's who.

The once famous Curly Kid Archibald of Irma, seen in action in a hectic battle in these parts, now has a new young one who will appear in one of the preliminary rounds. If they take after their dad you may expect the fur to fly. He is also on the look out for a couple of worthy opponents for two local products, Archie Hardy and Alan Jones who are anxious to exchange wallop for the edification of the fans. From where we sit it looks like there's going to be something doing on October 11th in the Elks hall. Watch for posters and more dope as the time nears for the going to ring.
